Yanks Move In Again—American infantrymen pass a burning German Tiger tank as they re-enter the Belgian town of La Gleize, 19 miles southeast of the fortress city of Liege, during the current Allied smash against Von Rundstedt's counteroffensive. Hard-hitting American troops have blunted the German spearhead and are now pressing hard on the German flanks as the bulge is slowly being pushed back and hacked to pieces.

PARIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Third Army has broadened to a mile and a half its arrowhead pointed across the narrow waist of the Belgian bulge north of Bastogne in the great, continuing battle to split the German salient.

WESTERN FRONT—American Third Army troops turned back two German counter attacks on the Bastogne corridor and registered gains south of St. Hubert and northeast of Moiray on the southern flank of the (1) German bulge. Heavy fighting raged southwest of Wiltz... and German attacks (2) against Yank Seventh Army positions in the Bitche area made little progress.

Double Aerial Blow at Luzon

By Associated Press

Squadrons of land-based U. S. planes making their first strong double-strike at Luzon island, where the decisive battles of the Philippines will be fought, blew up a Japanese ammunition train and probably sank eight enemy ships, including three warcraft.

The successful attacks revealed apparent Japanese preparation to meet an expected invasion of Luzon or to strike at nearby Mindoro Island where Tokyo radio has said Americans were bringing in reinforcements.

New ship arrivals and the southward movement of ammunition trains reaching from the Dutch coast to Japan, Japanese leaders "know they must not lose" the battle of the Philippines.

U. S. bombers and attack planes caught the ships in Lingayen Gulf, the original Japanese invasion route 150 miles north of Manila. They left three large freighter transports, two small freighters and three escorting warships sinking.

On southwestern Luzon, across narrow water channel from Mindoro, 50 Marine Corsairs attacked four ammunition trains. One was blown up and three damaged.

Fifteen Nipponese planes raided Mindoro while U. S. Air Forces damaged five Japanese vessels in miles reaching from the Dutch coast to Japan, southern outposts of Tokyo, hit for the 24th consecutive day.

On Leyte island in the Philippines 995 more Japanese were killed, and in Burma Japanese withdrew from virtually every front. The only active Nipponese opposition was to prevent reopening of the Burma Road.

German Threat In Po Area Eased

ROME, Jan. 2 (AP)—Fifth Army patrols probed enemy positions today in the Serchio valley sector of the Italian front, where last week's brief Nazi thrust appears definitely ended.

At the same time, Allied pressure was maintained farther west in the Tyrrhenian coastal area where the Germans were reported massing men and equipment.

Greater activity yesterday came near the Eighth Army right flank in the Po valley where a German raiding party supported by mortar fire crossed the Senio river southwest of Fagnano. Canadian troops broke up the raid, seized prisoners and sent the rest fleeing.

Balls of Fire Nazis' New Secret Weapon

A U. S. NIGHT FIGHTER BASE, France, Jan. 2 (AP)—American fighter pilots engaged in flying night intruder missions over Germany report the Nazis have come up with a new secret weapon—mysterious balls of fire which race along beside their planes for miles like will-o'-the-wisps.

Yank pilots have dubbed them "Foo Fighters," and at first thought they might explode, but so far there is no indication that any planes have been damaged by them.

Some pilots have expressed belief that the Foo Fighter was designed strictly as a psychological weapon. Intelligence reports seem to indicate it is radio-controlled from the ground and can keep pace with planes flying 300 miles an hour.

Lt. Donald Meiers of Chicago, Ill., said there are three types of foo fighters—red balls of fire that fly along at wing tip, a vertical American infantry, tanks and planes exacted a great and growing toll of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's materiel. The German had lost fully 110 tanks and armored vehicles, 208 planes and hundreds of other implements of war.

Below Bastogne, Lt. Gen. Patton widened to six miles the corridor feeding his main offensive threat by capturing the villages of Houmont, five and a half miles southwest, and Chenogne, four miles southwest of the road center. At last reports, the Third Army was 13 miles from the U. S. First Army flanking the north side of the bulge.

Supreme headquarters said today two German counterattacks were repulsed in the Champs area, three miles northwest of Bastogne, and near Viller-la-Bonne-Eva. The communique reported progress northeast of Moiray, a much exchanged hamlet.

Von Rundstedt's attacks against the U. S. Seventh Army around Bitche and along the Rhine appeared in preliminary appraisal to have netted little gain. These probably were the first of several strong diversionary efforts.

The Germany still was throwing most of his strength into the Belgian bulge. He was bracing the hard defensive line St. Hubert-Wiltz and persisting in counterattacks around Bastogne.

Supreme moves in the gigantic test of men, strategy and machines were not apparent. It was plain, however, Von Rundstedt has been hurt badly by sustained heavy Allied air attacks, now in their 11th day.

The whole front from Linnich to Stavelot at the north-central part of the bulge saw little activity Monday. American flak guns destroyed 17 strafing planes.

Allied artillery beat off German self-propelled guns which the enemy transported across the Maas in darkness north of Kapelle, Holland.

Canadian guns threw back two German patrols that also slipped across the river. Elsewhere British and Canadian sectors were still quiet.

During the night, British Mosquitoes ranged in a broad area behind the main battle bulge destroying or damaging 15 tanks and 90 motor vehicles. The U. S. Air Force alone claimed destruction yesterday of 279 assorted transports, 211 railcars and the disabling of 11 locomotives.

row of three balls of fire which fly in front of the planes and a group of about 15 flickering lights which follow the plane at a distance.

Floating and plane-following balls in fire-like color, added to the silver globes encountered over the German lines by American airmen, might not be as mysterious as would seem in cable dispatches, C. E. Butterfield, Associated Press radio editor, says.

This is just a guess, but on the little information available the colored and glowing globes might well be added elements in at-

'Tired Old Man' Hitler Tries New Act on Nazis

By PIERRE J. HUSS

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (INS)—The German people have been served a new kind of Hitler, presented in a carefully staged comeback bow over the year-end as the indomitable Fuehrer bravely but heavily bearing the burden of total war.

I listened to the broadcast picked up in New York from German shortwave stations which brought over the voice of the man announced as "Der Fuehrer" to a Nazi audience somewhere inside Germany.

I have seen and heard Hitler make fiery and foaming speeches many times, under all sorts of circumstances, and on the basis of the Berlin broadcast I'd say this:

The voice was the familiar throaty rumble of Hitler, a rich mixture of upper Bavarian and Austrian accents. The tell-tale inflections, the peculiar rise and fall of emphasis on certain familiar phrases and bromides, all of them were audible. The great difference lay not in the voice, but in the striking change of tone and delivery.

Pierre Huss

Hitler spoke in almost subdued manner, keeping his voice to a monotone, devoid of the formerly fiery excess and fever pitch bordering on hysterics. He sounded as if he were reading methodically the lines in black and white before him.

The fire was certainly gone from him, and he sounded like a tired old man.

Indeed, Hitler implied he was tired and old from a self-imposed overburden of war work. He represented himself as a man whose time was all taken up by the war. The modulated voice and the studied weariness he injected seemed concentrated on conveying an identical impression over the air.

He played skilfully and obviously for sympathy from the German people, coming close to the tear-jerking technique in the extent to which he claimed to be shouldering all responsibility and incessant labor on their behalf. He promised them a German victory and made it clear he was still the one and only Fuehrer. In the same breath, he indicated another year of total war must be anticipated.

Listening to him over here, it seemed as if Hitler must either have had a serious drain on his vocal powers in recent months, or else painstakingly had rehearsed his voice for the desired effect.

I believe that Hitler sold himself to the average German listener once again, convincing them the only chance of coming out alive from threatening defeat and extinction is to follow blindly where he leads.

To us over here it may seem incredible that any German with common sense should still believe in the remotest chance of a German victory. But the average German is deeply locked into the common fate of an inescapable dictatorship.

To quit the fight means capitulation; to listen to Hitler is like riding a ticket for another try at salvation.

I first ran into the "Re-appearance of Hitler" campaign some days before the launching of the big German offensive. Prisoners talked of having seen and heard Hitler in a personal tour of the Roer and Saar front.

They said Hitler had told them to hold on until Dec. 16, when the Wehrmacht would launch a powerful offensive and hurl the Americans out of Germany.

I questioned several who claimed to have seen Hitler at close range. All were convinced it was the real Hitler, most of them saying they saw very little change in him. But two of them talked in their description that Hitler, stepping slowly out of his car to make his informal speech, betrayed a slight stoop and greying hair. He was grave and preoccupied.

All of it matches the impression gained from listening to his voice. The bombastic brownshirt leader of the ribald beer hall days is gone, and in his place walks the dignified figure of "Der Fuehrer" who carries his burden heavily and has time only for mighty occasions, like the launching of an offensive designed in weeks of unsparring labor by him.

Such is the picture of Nazi-ridden Germany as it stands at the moment. There is no ground to assume a crackup on its home-front, or an easy and early defeat.

Reds Gain 200 More Blocks in Budapest

MOSCOW, Jan. 2 (INS)—Russian troops fought their way through 200 more blocks of houses in the flaming city of Budapest today and reports were that the fall of the Hungarian capital is now a matter of days, if not hours.

A front dispatch said that the Germans were setting fires within Budapest in an effort to check the Soviet onslaught and that the whole city seems to be in flames.

In the Pest section of the city the Russians were driving the enemy back house by house as the Germans established their positions in cellars and attics and flung back desperate artillery, machinegun and rifle fire. The Soviets circled to penetrate the German rear, breaking into fortified houses.

In the western part of the city, Soviet troops stormed enemy strongpoints.

Throughout the day's fighting, more than 1000 German officers and men were killed and 429 taken prisoner, the communique said.

Continuing high winds diminishing tonight and a sharp drop in the temperature were forecast for today by the weather bureau in the wake of the worst wind and rain storm since the September hurricane.

The driving southerly wind, which reached gale force of 45 to 60 miles an hour at Logan airport, with gusts as high as 80, felled trees, blew in plate glass windows and left several communities without light and electric power. One auto fatality was blamed on the heavy rain.

in the chest in a hunting accident at Lake Cuyamaca. Although the exact nature of the surgery was not indicated, it was believed that physicians were attempting to remove the bullet which had remained lodged in her body.

The injury was received when Miss Peters picked up a partly dismantled .22 caliber rifle which had been placed on the ground beneath a bush while she and members of the hunting party took a walk.

As she lifted the gun barrel, a shell left in the chamber was accidentally discharged, according to Capt. Herbert Kennedy of the San Diego sheriff's office.

The bullet entered the actress' chest on the right side, piercing her lung and lodging somewhere near the spine, it was revealed by Dr. F. G. Hollander.

Her condition is very serious, Dr. Hollander said. Miss Peters went to Lake Cuyamaca yesterday morning with her husband, Richard H. Quine, now stationed at San Diego with the Coast Guard.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 2 (AP)—The seventh and eighth German U-boat prisoners captured since 25 escaped Christmas Eve were taken in custody last night by a farmer.

H. R. Duffey, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, reported that Navy Capt. Hans Werner Krauss and Helmut Drescher were caught 12 miles west of Casa Grande, Ariz. Drescher's rank is comparable to second lieutenant in our army.

Casa Grande is 65 miles south of the Papago Park camp, where the men crawled out through a 200-foot tunnel. Six were captured near Phoenix a few hours later.

Boy's Own Story: 'I First Saw 2 Spies'

By JOE FRANKLAND AND JACK McLEAN

Copyright, 1945, by Boston Evening American

Dramatic capture by the FBI of two specially trained German saboteurs — the best the Nazis had to offer — came about through the native curiosity and brilliant sleuthing of a regular American boy, 17-year-old Harvard Hodgkins of Hancock Point, tiny coastal village of northern Maine.

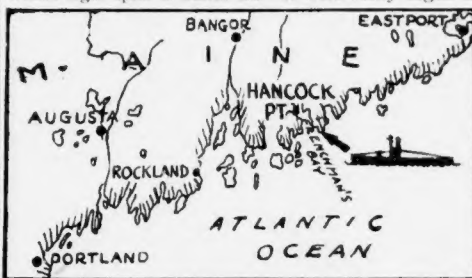

The clever youngster, a senior at Ellsworth, Me., High School, picked up the trail of the two espionage agents only minutes after they had been set ashore in a swirling snowstorm from a German U-boat, it was disclosed to the Boston Evening American today in an exclusive interview with the boy himself.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover made no mention of the schoolboy's feat in announcing in New York that he was holding William Curtis Colepaugh, 26, native of Niantic, Ct., discharged Navy veteran and former student at M. I. T., together with Erich Gimpel, 35, German-born engineer and former Nazi agent in South America.

In New York today, Hoover said he was certain no other agents landed with Gimpel and Colepaugh.

The crack saboteurs had been picked up separately in the New York area, along with their $56,574.61 in American money, loaded automatic revolvers, compass, camera, secret inks and a variety of draft papers and Navy discharge papers.

But the trail which for a month had led along the gay white night spots of Boston and New York really began at 11:40 on the night of Nov. 29 when young Hodgkins, son of a sheriff, was driving home from a dance.

He spied the two Germans, graduates of Germany's best espionage schools, only a few minutes after they had been set ashore in a rubber boat at Hancock Point, on the deserted shores of Frenchman's Bay.

But this is the way that young Hodgkins tells of his important part in another German strike which failed to hit America's inner defenses:

"It was snowing hard so I thought it would be a good idea to get started home early from the dance over at Ellsworth. I was driving my father's car."

"I had driven about four miles when I saw two men approaching through the storm on Route 1 towards Bangor. I slowed down so I wouldn't hit them and I noticed right off that they were wearing light topcoats and looked like a couple of college boys. One was very tall, and both were carrying bags."

"I was suspicious right away because they were strangers and they didn't have the proper clothing for a climate like we have. I kept on going and noticed their tracks along the road for about 100 yards, where they turned suddenly into the woods."

"Then I stopped the machine and followed them down through the woods for 200 yards, right to the edge of the water. We have been on the lookout for this sort of thing up here for the last two years. I figured I had something right off."

"My watch was exactly 11:40 when I saw the two men bucking into the storm. It was snowing hard, and the tide that night was the highest in 50 years."

"When I got home I spoke to my mother about it, but my father was away on a long time, especially along this isolated shore."

"Gosh, I'm glad I decided not to wait for the last dance. I might never have seen them."

There were other sharp eyes that picked up the plotting Nazis that stormy night.

Mrs. Mary Farni, 29, wife of a local school teacher, Dante Farni, 38, and mother of three children, also spied the two strangers and was equally suspicious.

Trained through scores of warnings, Mrs. Farni also reported her find to Sheriff Dana Hodgkins, confirming the story of the high school youngster.

"I was just about a half-mile from home when the lights of my automobile picked up two strangers struggling against the storm," she told the American today.

"They looked half frozen in their light coats. One was carrying a bundle under his arm and the other had a bag. I put my lights on full so I could get a better look and I knew I never had seen them around here before."

"I saw the footprints, too, and saw where they went off into the woods toward the beach. I told Sheriff Hodgkins, but the FBI didn't get around to questioning me about it for one week. The men must have got a good start. After that the FBI agents talked to most everyone in town."

Sheriff Hodgkins said today that he immediately contacted John Snow, head of the FBI at Bangor.

"I did all the investigating I could," the sheriff said, "but the men seemed to have vanished in thin air."

"We couldn't find that they had stopped at any hotel in Ellsworth or the three hotels in Bangor. They must have holed up at an abandoned overnight cabin or crawled into some barn. I never heard anything more about it until the story just came that the Germans were arrested in New York."

Byrnes Cracks Whip In Work, Fight Threat

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Drastic manpower proposals, edging closer to the "work or fight" act which lawmakers have long avoided, were thrown today into the battle on the home front.

NAVY YARD WORKERS SPONSOR SHIPS—Two Boston Navy Yard workers, Mrs. Ilauuo E. Young of Chelsea (left), and Mrs. Hazel L. Vickers of Everett, are congratulated by Rear Adm. Advanced by James F. Byrnes, the program would force 4-F men into war roles and put statutory teeth into manpower rules if present labor controls fail to spur the nation's armament output to needed levels.

The suggestions, made by Byrnes in his first report as director of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, are still merely threats. They are, moreover, at the mercy of a Congress which has shown reluctance to interfere with a man's freedom to choose his job.

But war agency officials prophesied that the whip-cracking document would add momentum to the home front effort merely by disclosing the sternness of enforcement measures which the Administration is willing to support.

Flatly predicting that larger draft calls in the next few months would aggravate the manpower shortage, Byrnes proposed stern measures for 4-F's not doing essential work.

He proposed that Congress make it possible to induct them all, then assign them to things they can do despite their physical impairment.

This may mean limited service in the Army, Byrnes said, or steering the inductees into jobs in

Byrnes' Ideas

By The Associated Press
Here, in brief, are War Mobilizer Byrnes' new ideas for the home front.

That 4-F's should be drafted for limited military service or war jobs if present manpower controls fail to do the needed job.

That Congress should pass legislation backing up War Labor Board orders.

That larger draft calls will have to come in the next few months; reconsideration of farm deferments may be required.

The work of reconverting to civilian production must be shelved "until our military men tell us they have enough."

critical war plants—by which means the government could see that they stayed in war work.

Striking at agriculture deferments—which he said cover the largest remaining source of young men for military service—Byrnes said it was necessary to reconsider the standards by which youthful farmers are deferred from military duty.

For the present, professional baseball and football need not fear a ban like that for horse racing, he indicated. But he declared bluntly that he believed medical re-examination should be given 4-F athletes.

He advocated that Congress at once give the War Labor Board power to make its decisions mandatory and legally enforceable in the courts, as a means of checking work stoppages. Seizure of farms for non-compliance frequently is an inadequate remedy, he said, and imposes on government onerous responsibilities of running private business.

Byrnes put reconversion firmly on the shelf "until victory is within our grasp, until our military men tell us they have enough supplies, and that we can afford to reduce production."

Flooded Cumberland Perils Tennessee

ATLANTA, Jan. 2 (AP)—A raging Cumberland river brought the added peril of a flood in Tennessee today while the South shivered in the grip of a severe cold wave.

Lowland dwellers of the Cumberland Valley moved out of their homes as the stream passed two feet above flood stage at Nashville and continued to rise.

HE KNOWS THE NEED—Rear Adm. Joseph J. McMullin, medical officer for the First Naval District, joins the more than 700 blood donors at the Red Cross Blood Bank, 485 Boylston st., Back Bay, to be one of the first in 1945 to do his bit in aiding the wounded. Nurse Edith Ri attends to the details. Thousands of more donors are desperately needed.

After a record-breaking turnout of blood donors, Red Cross officials today urged that the good work be kept up and that a steady stream of life giving blood and plasma be moved to the battle fronts until the war is won.

Hunter's Return Stops Body Hunt

ACTION, Jan. 2 (AP)—While police and firemen grappled for his body in Grassy pond, Robert Rimback, 20, staggered into a home in West Acton today, asserting he had been lost in the woods since Saturday, after giving chase to a deer.

Rimback left his home Saturday noon, saying he planned to fish through the ice on the pond. When he did not return at midnight, police were notified.

Police Chief Michael Foley reported he found a set of footprints leading to a large hole in the ice, but no return prints.

Today Young Rimback said he had just begun to fish when he saw the deer and became lost during the chase.

Chief Foley was still mystified over the lack of footprints leading away from the hole in the ice.

NEW ARMY FUEL TABLET

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Army has adopted a new fuel tablet for use in heating combat rations. Known as metaldehyde, it ignites readily and burns about seven minutes.

BACK FROM PACIFIC—Irma Lowe, USO-Camp Show entertainer, of Powell st., Brookline, who has returned from a 5-month tour of the "Island Circuit," which led her through Guadalcanal, Russell Islands, New Caledonia and the Fiji Islands.

A total of 737 donors made New Year's Day contributions for the busiest day ever put in at the Back Bay center. Joseph Hamlen, director of the Metropolitan Boston Red Cross chapter, said it was the first time in the center's history that all 31 beds were kept filled by donors throughout the entire day.

Although the bulk of the visitors were civilians, many an Army and Navy man—some of them who have received plasma or serum—near-miracles performed on comrades—were included in the throng that arrived throughout the day.

A contingent of 125 donors from First Naval District headquarters, composed of both officers and enlisted men and civilian personnel set an example to the home front population. R. Adm. Joseph McMullin, chief medical officer of the district, led the Navy donors with his assistant, Capt. A. W. Stearns, both of whom have used plasma in the South Pacific.

The center's first 1945 donor, who gave her 21st pint of blood, was Miss Edna R. Taylor, 30, of Pearl st., Cambridge. An assistant payroll cashier at Filene's, Miss Taylor marshalled with her 15 co-workers from the store who also made blood donations.

Miss Taylor said her donations are in honor of a brother and brother-in-law in service, Capt. Francis W. Taylor, of Cambridge, and Corp. Daniel J. Byrne, Jr., in India.

The first man donor, who was the first person to give blood in 1944, was Francis Dugan, 40, of Mattapan, a Boston Navy Yard civilian worker, who gave his 14th pint of blood yesterday honoring three sons in the service, T-Cpl. George Dugan, with Gen. Patton in Europe; AMM 1-c Francis Dugan and Marine Pvt. William Dugan.

Screen Stars Mitzi Mayfair and Carole Landis and Stage Stars Sue Ryan and Bobby Morris circled among the donors serving coffee and crackers and complimenting them on their donations.

Chaplin Paternity Case Nears Jury

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2 (AP)—A jury of seven women and five men may begin deliberations today—but more probably tomorrow—on whether Charlie Chaplin fathered Joan Berry's chubby, 14-month-old daughter, Carol Ann.

The paternity trial reopens after a three-day New Year's recess with final arguments by the 55-year-old comedian's lawyer, Charles E. Millikan, in answer to the fiery summation delivered Friday by Joan's attorney, Joseph Scott.

During the holiday lull Chaplin suffered an ankle injury which his physician said will keep him in a wheel chair two weeks. The comedian and his wife, the former Oona O'Neill, found themselves locked out of their house with no keys Saturday night. Chaplin kicked in a glass door panel and suffered a deep gash at the rear of his left ankle. Dr. N. Edward Gourson performed an operation to unite severed muscles.

Only a 9 to 3 decision—not a 12-vote unanimity—is necessary for the jury to reach a verdict in the civil suit.

Should the white-haired actor-producer be deemed the father, Scott told a reporter, the court would call a hearing at which, after considering arguments, it would fix the sum to be paid by Chaplin for the child's support. Joan, 24, is suing for $2500 a month.

Whether the red-headed baby would be accorded Chaplin's name is a matter for the court to decide, Scott's associate, A. H. Risse, added. He said the infant, if found to be Chaplin's, would be entitled to petition through its guardian for the name but that subject has not been discussed by Miss Berry and her counsel.

Scott in his final argument declared Joan had been subjected to "the mesmeric, hypnotic influence of this master mind over some kinds of women." He referred to Chaplin as a "postiferous, lecherous hound."

Blow Torch Blast Burns Firemen

Engulfed in flames when a blow torch they were using caused an explosion, two Boston fire department employees were painfully burned today in fire headquarters repair shop, Bristol st., South End.

Michael Halkoran, 41, of La-Grange pl., Roxbury, suffered burns on his face, hands, arms and legs. His fellow-worker, Harry Lambrecht, 38, of Lorette st., Roxbury, was burned about the face and hands. Both were taken to City Hospital.

Fire which followed the explosion caused damage of less than $100, officials said. Fumes from a nearby gasoline tank were believed to have caused the blast, Deputy Chief John H. McDonough said.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—It's official: Harold Ickes is a rose.

A Texas rosegrower, A. F. Watkins of Tyler, has named his latest and thorniest plant the "Harold Ickes."

In replying to the request for permission to use his name, the Secretary of Interior wrote:

"I was . . . confused until you explained that the new rose was one of an extremely thorny variety. That would be appropriate. I am so overcome by your flattery suggestion that all I can say is that I accept the honor with pleasure."

GI ASK DURABLE PEACE, NURSES SAINTS, CLARE SAYS

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (INS)—GI Joe, passionately hating war yet heroically fighting to victory through mud, blood, cold and intolerable physical hardships, asks only one reward for his Gethsemane: A durable peace for all men.

This is the universal hope and determination of America's fighting men, Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce (R.) of Connecticut, just returned from a long tour of European battle fronts, declared in an exclusive interview.

"He wants America to keep this awful thing from ever happening again," she declared.

"This is the one thing on which there is universal, articulate and passionate agreement among all GIs. They are as intent on keeping the peace as on winning the war."

Mrs. Luce discovered also that GI Joe is firm in his determination that America should play a leading and active role in international affairs in the postwar world. Four questions, particularly indicative of the problems he ponders in his loneliness so far from home, were inevitably asked of Mrs. Luce by virtually every GI to whom she talked:

1—"Do we have to fight in the Pacific when the European war is won?"

2—"How soon do we get home after the shooting ends?"

3—"Will I find a job I like waiting for me when I get home?"

4—"How are we going to prevent a repetition of this war?"

"G. I. Joe," she said, "may be muddled on how to prevent future wars. But, without exception, he is certain of one condition that should be a tremendous help in this direction: he firmly believes that postwar America must maintain a huge Army, Navy and Air Corps. He wants an America prepared for any military eventuality in the future."

The Republican Congresswoman has returned from Italy a passionate spokesman for the GI's fighting the long, tedious and exceptionally difficult war on what they think of as the forgotten front.

"Every place, the American soldier knows that he is the best fed and best clothed fighting man in the world," Mrs. Luce said, "but the boys in Italy know they have been short-changed, even though unavoidably."

The lack of both shipping space and of infantrymen were blamed by Mrs. Luce for the fact that combat troops such as the 34th Division in Italy were still in the line.

If Mrs. Luce came home to crusade for the GI's in Italy, she returned determined to enshrine the American Army nurse in the hearts of her countrymen.

"They are the most wonderful women I have ever known," she said reverently. "They are tops in every way. Their life is hard and often primitive beyond belief. It is no wonder that the GI regards them as saints, for that is what they are. She is mother, sister, wife, sweetheart to every wounded man she cares for. They worship her."

So vital is the role of the Army nurse that Mrs. Luce returned home firm in the belief that, if necessary, there must be national conscription of women to provide the armed forces first with nurses, second with WACS and Red Cross girls.

"Commanders in every theater of the war are yelling for more WACS," she declared.

"Commanders would say to me 'For God's sake, can't you do something to get more WACS over here?'"

Mrs. Luce said she intended to suggest to Army authorities that they take a group of prominent and articulate women abroad who could see and appraise the invaluable services of Army nurses, WACS and Red Cross workers.

"Perhaps they will come home then and be able to tell other women how badly they are needed overseas," she added.

ACTOR BOOKED — Helmut Dantine (above), Austrian-born film actor, was booked on a battery charge in West Los Angeles police station after Miss Leslie Forrest (below), Ida Lupino's secretary, complained he had bitten her arm, wrist and hand and chased a woman guest through the actress' house. She extends arm she says was bitten.

NOTED NEGRO SINGER DIES
NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Clarence Tisdale, 65, Negro singer of ballads, died here. Over a period of 30 years he had sung in Australia, London, Paris and New York. His songs, in French, Spanish, German, Italian and English, ranged from folk music to classics.

Wife Shooter Exclaims 'Glad I Didn't Miss Her'

Muttering that he was glad he didn't miss, Albert Daley, 39, of Aspinwall ave., Brookline, was held by police today while doctors at City Hospital battled to save the life of his 27-year-old estranged wife, Ruth, presented with five bullet wounds as a New Year's present.

FBI, 2 STATES HUNT ATTACKER OF R. I. GIRL, 20

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 2—After furnishing a description of her attacker and the registration number of his car police of two states joined the FBI today in a hunt for the abductor of Miss Edna J. Masgay, 20, of Main st., Seekonk.

In hysterical condition, the girl was under care of a doctor at her home. She told authorities that her assailant, a heavy set, good looking man about 30, finally drove her home in response to her pleadings after she had battled with him.

Miss Masgay reported she was on her way to work and waiting for a bus when the man hailed her. She said he was driving a car bearing Rhode Island license plates.

She said she declined his offer of a ride to Providence and also his offer to let her sit in his car so she would have shelter from the rain. When she refused this last request he grabbed her and flung her into the car, she said.

The man then drove her across the Rhode Island-Massachusetts line, Miss Masgay told police, and in a lonely wooded section forced his attentions on her.

She put up a struggle, during which she slugged him with a whisky bottle, but he finally overpowered her, the girl said. After he attacked her twice he drove her to a spot near her home and she ran out of the car.

Drive on Pickpockets Ordered by Sullivan

Police Commr. Thomas F. Sullivan ordered a roundup of pickpockets following report by three servicemen of separate thefts that totalled $485.

Lt. W. R. Schwartz, USN, of Baltimore, told police his wallet and $400 was taken somewhere between Park and School sts. William R. Fair, USN, last his pocketbook containing $50 in a downtown theater. The third theft was $35 from Marvin L. McDonald of Portland, Me., a Coast Guardsman, who also lost a furlough ticket to Virginia.

N. E. Legislators List Expenses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Successful candidates for Congress from Massachusetts spent $39,501.76 on their campaigns, reports to Congress showed today. They received $40,037.44 in contributions.

The total of all campaign expenditures by candidates for the House of Representatives was $30,991.76. Contributions from all sources amounted to $31,527.41.

Gov. Saltonstall (R.) reported $8540 in contributions and a like amount in expenditures in his successful quest for a Senate seat. Largest expenditure listed was $5700 to the Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N. J., for a sampling of votes.

Largest total expenditure was reported by Christian A. Herter (R.) of Boston. He spent $55410. Herter also received the largest amount in contributions, $10,380.

Four Congressmen-elect received no contributions. Edith Nourse Rogers (R.) of Lowell said she spent $340. Richard B. Wiglesworth (R.) of Milton claimed expenditures totalling $1289.50.

James M. Curley (D.) of Boston and James W. McCormack (D.) of Boston said their expenditures and contributions both were nil.

The victim, mother of three children, was felled by a fusillade of shots after she had turned down her husband's plea to start off the New Year with reconciliation.

Daley, according to police, slipped into the kitchen of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital, Fenwood rd., Roxbury, where his attractive blonde wife is employed as a waitress.

When his pleadings that she make another try at married life were turned down, Daley pulled a .38-calibre revolver from his pocket and began firing, according to police, with these words:

"O. K. Have it your way. Here's a New Year's present for you."

Five bullets struck her as she fled into the cafeteria, to drop at the feet of Robert McKellar, an attendant, with whom she had been eating supper a few minutes previously.

McKellar battled Daley in an effort to get the gun and narrowly missed injury when the final shot in the revolver sped past his head and lodged in the wall.

Rushing by employees and doctors, Daley fled from the building and surrendered to State Police Lt. William Daley, whom he knew.

Doctors at City Hospital worked for three hours to remove four bullets from the victim's thighs and then decided not to attempt removal immediately of the fifth, which lodged in her abdomen. Her condition is critical and her name was placed on the danger list.

Daley agreed to surrender to police in Kenmore sq. and called City Hospital to find out his wife's condition while awaiting the state police detective.

Giving his identity over the telephone, Daley announced "I hope I didn't miss," according to the story told by doctors at the hospital, after they told him little hope was held for his wife's recovery.

Daley took his prisoner to the Roxbury Crossing station, where Daley was held on a charge of suspicion of assault with intent to murder.

Police said the couple separated last summer and that their three children are now under state care.

Uniform Trips Former Captain

Wearing his Army captain's uniform after he was placed on inactive service got a Lincoln, Neb., overseas veteran in trouble today when he was taken into custody on suspicion of impersonating an officer.

He was picked up by military police at Hotely Statler when a routine check for his identification papers disclosed he had been honorably released last September at Ft. Dix, N. J.

The erstwhile captain fled from his hotel room while MP's were searching it and was found hiding in a linen closet on the 11th floor. He had been living at the hotel for three weeks.

First Service Command officials said veterans were allowed to wear Army uniforms "for a reasonable time" after being discharged. They said the maximum was 90 days.

2 Die in Oil Tanker Blast
 LEONARDO, N. J., Jan. 2 (AP)—Two U. S. Merchant Marine men were killed, six injured and eight listed as missing in an explosion and fire aboard the Sun Oil Co. tanker "Sunoco" off the New Jersey coast today.
 The Navy Public Relations Office in New York city reported the 246-foot vessel was smoking badly but still afloat in Sandy Hook Bay as the fire was fought by Navy, Coast Guard and New York city fireboats.
 The tanker, which had taken on a load of liquid benzol at Perth Amboy, was being towed to Philadelphia when the explosion occurred. The cause was not immediately known.

"G. I." Irks Vets
 SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP)—"We're tired of being regarded as government issue," said a spokesman for a group of overseas veterans at the Army distribution center. "We've got names and we want 'em used. So from now on we will protest the use of the phrase of 'GI Joe' by individuals, or by movies and newspapers."
 Their New Year's resolution: A boycott on the use of "GI Joe."

 —Filene's Basement has been catering to the Dough Girls for years—Pin-ups girls and Out-door girls, College girls, Business girls, Society girls, Flappers—Celebrities. Who's Who, Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady—in fact, it doesn't make any difference how much or how little "dough" (greenbacks to you) one may have, your dollars go further in Filene's Basement. WORLD FAMOUS SPECIALIST IN BARGAINS. Girls are one of Filene's Basement specialties—they have been for over 36 years, and we love 'em all. Of course, one of our big favorites is the Cradle Set; we keep them in dozens, millions of them annually. As for the Juveniles, Teeners, Debs, Juniors and Pin-ups, we have some fourteen buying specialists who give all their time to buying underpriced bargains to help these girls spend their "dough" further. Modern Cinderellas, as you might term them, we have learned how to make $10 do what might ordinarily take $20 without Filene's Basement. Our girls' section is a regular rendezvous for high school and teen crowd for sweaters at $2 and skirts at $3.95 and recently you should have seen the cute GI JOE'S sweatshirt we picked out a lot of a Lanz gabardine frock with the Tyrolean app— for only $7— a date dress beau-catcher. And when Suzie Q makes her entrance at her first 1945 party in a swirling net gown with striking striped topper of rayon taffeta, for which she paid only $3.95, the tag line is sure going to form on the right. And the young madams who solaced $258 for a super-elegant Persian lamb fur trimmed sample coat is going to be the cynosure of all eyes when she travels. GIRLS—GIRLS—GIRLS, whether you are a modest Midge, a thrifty nifty, or a petite peacock doing on fashion, you'll always be in the "dough" if you shop in Filene's Basement, specialist to "DOUGH-GIRLS."

Man Badly Burned in Cambridge Room

Kenneth Warner, 45, was critically burned today when flames swept his suite at the Riverside Apartment Hotel, Memorial dr., Cambridge.

Nazi Prisoners Get Lumber Job

More than 8,000,000 board feet of critically needed lumber will be salvaged during the coming weeks by German prisoners of war under a plan worked out by Gov. Saltonstall and Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, commander of the First Service Command.

The timber, felled in the hurricane and storms of the past fall, is mostly in Earnstable County and will be trucked to sawmills at Camp Edwards.

5000 in Chenille Plant Must Seek New Jobs

DALTON, Ga., Jan. 2 (AP)—Five thousand skilled workers in the North Georgia chenille industry will have to seek new jobs when a WPB order halts manufacture of cotton chenille Jan. 15.

W. R. Ingram, secretary of the Tufted Bedspread Manufacturers' Ass'n, said many workers will be absorbed by war plants, but because their skill is so specialized he hopes they can be held together until production is resumed.

Mass Murder of 100 Belgians By Hitler's Pets Revealed

By HAL BOYLE

STAVELOT, Belgium, Jan. 1 (delayed)—(AP)—Army officers estimate that fanatical Nazi S.S. troops slaughtered without provocation at least 100 Belgian civilians during the first few days of the recent German break through.

Acting mostly under direct orders from German officers to kill all civilians encountered, Hitler's pampered troops clubbed, shot and burned to death men, women and children without cause.

As the American Army began to contain the sudden offensive, however, trapped enemy columns were kept so busy fighting for their lives they had neither leisure nor ammunition for murdering civilians.

"But we know positively of 63 Belgian civilians they killed in the Stavelot area," said Capt. Melvin H. Handville, former state trooper from Syracuse, N. Y., who investigated German atrocities in this area.

In addition to atrocities against civilians in the Stavelot area, German troops probably massacred more than 150 American troops. This is a very conservative figure.

The State Department has officially protested the slaughter of 135 out of 150 American unarmed soldiers lined up in a field and machine gunned near Malmédy. In other cases American truck drivers, trapped by fast moving Panzers, were pulled from vehicles, disarmed and ruthlessly shot.

Atrocities against civilians around Stavelot have been thoroughly documented by Army officers through questioning of survivors and voluntary statements by captured Germans who acknowledged the part they played in the killings.

Most revolting was the massacre of 20 to 25 Belgian men, women and children herded into a barn and shot by engineers from the 1st Hitler Panzer Division. The Germans then fired the barn to destroy the evidence. The bodies were so badly burned only 10 or 12 were identified.

Nazis Slay 3500 In Murder Camp

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The bodies of 3500 Yugoslav patriots shot by the Germans in a concentration camp between March, 1943, and April, 1944, have been exhumed from 70 small and two large graves on Bezanja ridge near Belgrade, the free Yugoslav radio said.

Negro Soldier Stabs Cafe Man

Resentful because he was evicted from a cafe, a Negro soldier today drew a knife and slashed Louis Scalzi, 54, of Dewey st., Watertown, part owner of the Blue Moon Cafe, Washington st., Roxbury.

Rushed to City Hospital, Scalzi was treated for a two-inch knife wound in the stomach. Doctors said he would live.

Scalzi told police he thought the soldier had had too much to drink and ushered him out the door. The identity of the soldier is known, police said, and a warrant for his arrest will be sought in Roxbury court.

Squawk Day at City Hall Set Up by Woman Mayor

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 2.—One day every two weeks will be open house at City Hall and citizens will be free to discuss their personal problems, make complaints or offer suggestions.

This was the policy announced today by the city's first woman mayor, Mrs. May Carey Dondero, 50, who was sworn into office by her predecessor, Governor Charles M. McE.

"As mayor, I pledge myself to economy and efficiency, to a keen vision for post-war projects for our city, and to make our community one which is kept faith with our boys and girls who are fighting," Mrs. Dondero said in her inaugural address.

She added that her motto would be "Let the city's business be an open book."

Three of the mayor's four daughters were at the inauguration exercises: Mrs. Ralph Sylvia of Falmouth, Mass.; Mrs. Allan F. Mitchell of Portsmouth, and Eileen Dondero, a VAC, stationed at Greiner Field. The fourth daughter, Carlotta, a WAVE, who is at Hunter College, was unable to attend.

Junior Colony — Fourth Floor

the saboteurs made their way from Bangor to Boston and for two weeks had a gay time in the Hub entertaining pretty girls and women.

Night club and hotel managers wondered about the mystery men and their escorts, who dressed so well and ate and drank lavishly.

The Boston whirl and subsequent fun in New York before they settled down to business cost the pair $5000 of the $60,000 nest egg which both have admitted to Hoover. They brought assistance to finance plans for getting information back to Germany and striking at America's war effort.

Both men had been expertly trained in demolition work and both were radio engineers.

German Hoover said the men gave detailed accounts of their movements since landing in Alaska, as well as their future plans. They had arrived in New York about two weeks ago, after a sojourn of similar duration in Boston.

The FBI head disclosed that Colepaugh served in the Navy until discharged in 1942 "for the convenience of the government." At M. I. T., where he was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, students said Colepaugh appeared to have pro-Nazi leanings and was very argumentative when drinking.

At Natick, Selectman Fred Beckwith said he had not seen Colepaugh since he appeared there in Navy uniform in 1942. Prior to that he had been arrested in Philadelphia as a draft dodger when he came ashore from a tanker. He pleaded that he could not notify of a change in address because he had been dodging U. S. boats, and the charges were dropped when he said he was ready to join the Navy.

On his discharge, he signed on as a mess boy aboard the Swedish exchange liner Gripsholm and deserted at Liden. He now admits he went to the German consulate and offered his services, being sent at once to German espionage schools.

Beckwith said the Colepaugh home was closed up today since the arrested youth's mother, Mrs. Hazel Colepaugh, and his sister, Louise, were visiting in New York. He added that Louise had been a bright student and later became a nurse or a doctor's aide at some hospital.

Capture of Colepaugh, who had an alias of William O. Caldwell, and Gimpel, who used the alias of Edward George Green, was the first revealed attempt by Hitler to land spies by submarine since eight Nazi saboteurs were landed—four on Long Island, N. Y., on June 13, 1942, and four others in Florida four days later. All were captured, and six of the eight pined with their lives.

Hoover said the two men were landed from submarine No. 1230, which sailed from Kiel, Germany, Sept. 25, and cruised up and down the Maine coast for a week awaiting the favoring snow and high tide for the landing at Hancock Point.

The submarine cruised on the surface at night and submerged in the daytime, and now is believed to have played a part in the destruction of a large vessel off Searport, Me.

Authorities stressed that although the men had a radio and carried special inks for transmission of important messages, they had not contacted their superiors prior to capture.

Born at Natick March 25, 1918, Colepaugh was educated in Natick and New London schools before going to Admiral Farragut Academy and M. I. T. He flunked out of M. I. T. twice before taking up civilian work as an engineer.

Colepaugh was sent to school by the Nazis in Berlin, Dresden and the Hague, being accepted for secret service in the Elite Guard.

Colepaugh and Gimpel met there and both were trained in handling short-wave radio, sabotage technique and the use of explosive on railroad tracks, Hoover related.

White Defends GOP Course

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (INS)—Sen. Wallace H. White, Jr., of Maine, acting Republican Senate leader, defended his party against charges that it is failing to provide vigorous opposition to the Administration.

"Like Republicans," he said, "criticized errors of omission and commission by the Administration in every instance where they believe such a course would make some contribution to the ends for which we are all striving."

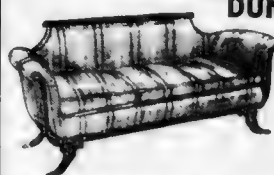

Stressing that Republicans put the public good above partisanship in a time of war and possible international political crisis, White forecast an active role for the party in the new Congress.

Congress' Red Prober Being Rushed Into Army

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—

Why are the Communist and left-wing forces pressing for the quick induction into the Army of Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator of the expiring House un-American Activities Committee?

Why is the Communist dominated Political Action Committee bloc in Congress working for the consigning of the committee's files to the cloisters of the Library of Congress?

Why was Stripling (who incidentally is anxious to get into the armed services) refused a 24-hour postponement of induction in order to officially turn over the files to the clerk of the House; the deferment recommendation of the Congressional Deferment Committee, headed by Sen. Maybank (D.) of South Carolina, ignored by an Alexandria, Va., draft board, and Stripling scheduled as the lone inductee from the area Friday?

The answers are suggested in the mass of damaging, damning, unassailable documentary evidence relating to subversive activities in and out of bureaucracy in the undisclosed and private committee files of which only Stripling and a few others are aware.

For instance, about to die in the secret files of the committee is documentary evidence showing that during the Hitler-Stalin pact there was a clandestine money bags Communist set-up in the United States financing the official Communist organs and Red propaganda directed at keeping this country out of the war.

It carried the name of Soundview Foundation, Inc., and its incorporation papers in Delaware record its purpose as purely humanitarian.

LOST SEAS

THE great Atlantic and Pacific oceans will dry up in the not too distant future. Authority for this rather alarming statement is none other than Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

Of course, the prophetic Mr. Forrestal does not really mean that the vast bodies of water separating us from the European and Asiatic continents are going to disappear and become something like the Sahara desert.

Rather, he employs picturesque language to emphasize and dramatize the grim fact that the robot plane will soon take away the security which the oceans have always given the United States and render us an easy target for enemies all over the world.

Once the English Channel was the British Isles' best fortification, Mr. Forrestal points out. But now flying vessels and winged bombs span the channel in less than an hour and rain destruction on cities and towns long considered impregnable.

The further development and perfection of aircraft and robots will eventually make America just as accessible to long-distance bombardment.

Wherefore Mr. Forrestal has urged Archibald G. Thacher of New York, chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Universal Training, to intensify his activities and to be confident that his work is of prime importance to the future of the country.

And Mr. Forrestal is right; history is replete with the lack of preparedness of the United States in every war which it has entered, even when the enemy was three thousand miles away.

The persistent lax and lazy policy has cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of young men who were rushed into the fighting forces and hastily trained in periods of national desperation.

It has also been tremendously expensive to the people as a whole, as the defense expenditures of the current conflict prove.

All Americans, and particularly Americans who realize with Mr. Forrestal that the Atlantic and Pacific have ceased to be a guarantee of safety, should give more serious thought to Switzerland's splendid system of universal military training.

If we had had the vision and enterprise of Switzerland a generation ago, it is highly probable that we might have prevented World War II and made the old earth an infinitely happier place on which to live.

Fortunately, it is not too late to prevent World War III.

LET'S TAKE LEAD

AN ENORMOUSLY expanded program for the teachings of foreign languages has been forecast by members of the American Association of Teachers of Slavonic and East European Languages meeting in New York.

This is true undoubtedly, although greater emphasis is more likely to be on Spanish, French and Portuguese than on the so-called Slavic tongues.

Cultural and neighborly relations with South America are growing constantly, and they will be even closer and stronger after the war.

We should be able to converse with our brothers and cousins in this hemisphere.

Certainly we can hardly expect to make our dreams come true with the old and discredited high school courses which exposed students to French, Spanish, Portuguese and Italian for three and four years without equipping them to speak intelligently for five minutes.

The right foreign language course should give a person a sufficient vocabulary to express himself fluently after six months' study.

Massachusetts, which has long boasted of its high educational standards, should lead the nation in the establishment of new and practical speech instruction.

OF COURSE, our sprightly spaniel likes me but the great love of his life is my girl friend. When she goes out he sits at the window and watches for her to return. If she is delayed he becomes very worried and starts pacing the floor. Every now and then he stops and looks inquiringly at me as if to ask: "What's delaying her? Think anything has happened to her?" Sometimes he gets me so worried that I start pacing the floor with him.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS.
Q—Who won the lightweight title from Joe Gans and where? Do you think Leonard was better than Gans? A—In 1908 Battling Nelson won the title from Gans in San Francisco by a knockout in the 17th round. I never saw Gans fight. However, most experts rate Leonard above him. Q—Ever hear of a painting titled "Stella"? A—There was a sensational painting of that title exhibited at San Francisco's Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. I don't know who painted it. Raphael had a model named Stella Gaffarelli who posed for many of his best known paintings, including "The Triumph of Galatea." That is all I know about the connection of the name of Stella with art.

PASSING BY: Judith Evelyn (pronounced Eve-Line) played a feature role in the psychological drama "Angel Street" for three years. Gave the part up because it was beginning to get on her nerves. Has been looking for a new play ever since. I like to see Judith act. If she doesn't get a play soon I may have to write one for her myself. I am always talking about writing a play. My girl friend said: "Do you know what would get you started writing a play?" Says I: "What, for example?" Says he: "If somebody had you a box of Havana you couldn't write a play you would have one fun."

ished in a week." She may have something there. Anybody want to bet?

PLEASE NOTE: Am asked if Noel Coward was in the British army in World War I. He was. Originally assigned to the Labor Corps, he secured a transfer to the Artists Rifles O. T. C. The British News Review points out that Coward, in his autobiography, with "unbelievable frankness," made the following reference to his World War I army service: "The needs of my King and country seemed unimportant compared with the vital necessity of forging ahead with my own career."

Noel Coward

BRIEFLY: This department receives quite a few letters from wives who praise their husbands, usually describing them as "perfect" or "wonderful." As a member of the Husband's Protective Ass'n, I find this correspondence very refreshing. . . In 1944 the U. S. government collected about $13,000,000 in taxes on jewelry sales. Fifty-nine million was collected on furs. And $45,000,000 on cosmetics. Too bad the federal government was not in on the taxes from horse racing. New York State alone collected $27,000,000 from that source.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Why call Chicago "The Windy City"? New York is the real windy city. And the windiest corner in Manhattan is not, as often alleged, the famous Flatiron building corner. It is the corner of Fifty-ninth st. and Fifth ave. I have seen strong men knocked from their feet by blasts of wind at that corner. New Yorker reports a millinery shop bearing the sign "Flora and Frieda." He asks, "How's that for a firm name?" Sound's good. Firm should take in a girl named Florence. Then they could put up a sign: "Flora, Frieda and Florence. Three smart gals."

CAREER GIRLS: Five million of the 16,000,000 employed women have war jobs. About 80 per cent of women with war jobs have stated they wish to keep on working after the war. They might find it very tough to get a job. Feminine war workers should save their money and try to start a small business after the war. Then they would have a job of their own and perhaps be able to give a couple of other people jobs.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Among others who closely watched the work of the Political Action Committee in the late campaign, I have realized that this group accomplished a feat of organization and propaganda the like of which this country has never seen.

Hitler and the Nazi party performed similarly in Germany, however, and the Communists, who are never too proud to adopt an effective Westbrooke Pegler weapon of the opposition, learned lessons from them and applied them to the election of Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt, of course, is able to say now that no single group among the following that piled up his relatively small popular plurality was directly responsible for his victory. But the fact persists that in the industrial areas the Political Action Committee did organize the vote and turn it out.

TURNING OUT the vote, of itself, however, was not enough. The PAC also persuaded the vote and this was where its propaganda counted heavily in the result.

This propaganda was highly inflammatory pamphlets, mimeographed and printed dodgers and paid advertisements in the standard press. Much of it was very artistic in its appeal to the people's memory of unemployment during the unhappy presidency of Herbert Hoover, usually visualized by the picture of a man selling apples, to the neglect of Dewey's reiterated reminder that Roosevelt was still feeding 10,000,000 unemployed on a dole until rearmament and then conscription came.

From the standpoint of results, it was fine work, by contrast with that of the Republicans. Even some of the celebrated 26 Governors and their organization workers, do not quite appreciate how it was done. They had seen it done before in limited localities, of course, and they could have read the basic lessons in the writings of Al Smith who told of a similarly thorough and more intimate system which operated in miniature on the East Side.

PERMEATING ALL this, however, was the class-hatred of the Communists and their artistic insinuation which convinced many voters that Dewey was, if not an outright Fascist himself, then, anyway, the associate and tool of Fascists, and that he was a friend of the enemies of the Jews if not a Jew-bater in secret, himself.

Labor was depicted as the victim and therefore, necessarily, the enemy of capitalism and all industry as the greedy and unpatriotic oppressor of the workers.

In this propaganda, be it remembered, the Communists are diligently educated and trained. They attend schools, they are as fanatical as the Nazis and, like the Nazis, they learn to schedule with sympathy as well as to organize mass demonstrations and spontaneous demonstrations.

The result of this election, following three terms of Roosevelt, is that labor has been seduced into a mistaken and from its own standpoint, a very dangerous position. Labor, meaning those who believe in unionism, is, for political purposes, arrayed against capital. Labor, as thus defined has taken the position that capital and capitalism must be destroyed, failing which capital will destroy labor.

IGNORANT AND selfish pomposities of the A. F. of L., while withholding themselves from the PAC because it was a political branch of the CIO, nevertheless promoted its program. These comfortable and self-important bosses lacked the intelligence to analyze the final consequences of such a division in the nation and the character to oppose it if they had discerned the consequences.

Now, as a result, Communism is more aggressive and dangerous than ever, and if some truly intelligent and patriotic union leaders do not start organizing the counter-offensive immediately, the Communist program will sweep along.

The Communists and the PAC, though they won, have handed over, free, a text-book and plans for a counter-organization and a counter-propaganda which could be used to beat them and save the nation. It is all there in their campaign material. The voters can be organized for American ideals and an American program as well as for the European program of fear, suspicion and hatred.

Young voters can be taught that this nation enjoys liberties and opportunity unknown anywhere else on earth, notwithstanding Roosevelt's Fascist experiments and the war restrictions to date, and persuaded that the way to maintain this wonderful advantage over all the systems of Europe and South America is to work with capital and industry, not against them.

"Bregler!"

Hollywood By Louella O. Parsons

Distributed by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2—For the first time in the history of Mexico, motion picture censorship has stopped in. The newspapers in Mexico City were filled with the banning of Dolores Del Rio's last picture, "Los Abandonados."

She invited a select group of Mexican social and film leaders to the premiere of her picture. When they arrived they were told the picture could not be shown on an order from the government.

The censored picture tells the usual story of a woman who goes wrong and ends disgraced, old and poverty stricken—the chronological history of a fallen woman. There are all sorts of rumors given for the reason the government banned Dolores' movie.

One is a general is shown in an unfavorable light; another is it is offensive to the morals and religious feelings. Up to now Mexico has been censoring and this will completely change the manner of making pictures.

AFTER TRYING for months to clear the rights, Gregor Rabinovitch has sold M-G-M "Ballerina Slavenska," a picture he made in France before the war. Of course, it will be an entirely new production with an American cast, headed by Susan Peters and Margaret O'Brien.

Dolores Del Rio

The Peters girl was going great guns and on her way to the star bracket when taken ill and forced to remain off the screen for six months. Now she has been shot in a hunting accident.

If her condition permits, she will get a break in having Joe Pasternak produce "Ballerina Slavenska," for he seems to strike a lucky note with young femme stars.

ANN SHERIDAN'S NEW YEAR'S present from Warners was notice of her suspension. She wasn't exactly what you might call surprised because she had said she wouldn't do the musical, "When Old New York Was Young," and unless there was another picture available a suspension was inevitable. This isn't the first time Ann and her boss, Jack Warner, haven't seen eye to eye. Last time it was about a salary increase and she was off the payroll six months. I asked her what she intended to do. She said, "Oh, take a rest. I've been so tired since I returned from overseas."

CONSTANCE MOORE goes to New York for another show. "But," she says, "I won't stay away from Johnnie this time longer than a few months. We are getting along so well, and no matter what anyone tells you, these separations aren't good for either the husband or the wife." Connie says she has a yum-yum part opposite Billy Gaydon and Victor Moore in Vincent Freedley's new musical on Broadway. She'll be back in April to do a Technicolor picture for Charlie Rogers, P. S.—

She and Johnnie Maeha, her agent-husband, had their only difficulties when Connie was in New York so long with "By Jupiter."

WHAT'S GOING to happen this year? Well, I don't pretend to be an oracle, but I don't mind doing a little guessing. For one thing, now that M-G-M's Oberon's rift with Sir Alexander Korda is in the open, she's expected to go to Reno for a divorce in the spring. And then everyone will be surprised if she doesn't marry Cameraman Lucien Ballard. . . . June Allyson and Dick Powell won't admit an engagement, and June occasionally goes out with other beaux. But when his divorce from Joan Blondell becomes final I'm looking for a 1915 marriage here. . . . I also have a hunch Fay Emerson Roosevelt will be on the star's calling list before the year is out.

SNAPSLOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOLPH: Juliet, the Ronald Colman heiress, is being christened January 8; Gladys Robinson (Mrs. Eddie G.) will soon be a grandmother; Greer Garson, chosen the outstanding actress of the year by Boxoffice, a trade publication, was given a plaque and a luncheon to celebrate the happy event; The Bob Hope party was, really, an over-occasion with everyone there to make it an evening to remember. Dolores and Bob knew the 300 guests well enough to call them by their first names (there were no party crashers). That's something in Hollywood. . . . Bruce Crosby, who was always one of the prettiest blondes in Hollywood, came with Bing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—I was strolling past the room clerk's desk in the Statler the other evening as a portly gentleman of ancient vintage checked in. He seemed familiar but I couldn't quite place him for the nonce.

"Who is that?" I asked an assistant manager. "I think I've seen him before."

"Save you guys for your column," snapped the functionary. "You know very well who he is. You gave this hotel enough publicity over him—and, if we neglected to thank you, it wasn't an oversight."

"That gentleman, Mr. Smart-Aleck, happens to be Mr. Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters Union."

"Well, well," I said, "this is certainly a happy homecoming. I suppose old women loved him back. What arrangements have you made for a second Battle of the Statler? Of course, you are staging one in his honor?"

"That will do," snarled the assistant. "I don't want to hear any more about the Battle of the Statler."

"That makes you and the Navy practically unanimous," I murmured. "I understand it is definitely opposed to having any more of its officers socked. But I must go up and interview Mr. Tobin."

I learned the boss teamster, who leads a Spartan life, had been assigned to Suite 712. On the way up I thought of questions to ask him.

One question seemed eminently fitting—whether he would take advantage of this blessed season of goodwill to forgive his enemies and them who had despoiledly used him.

I decided to ask if he had it in his heart to forgive those who precipitated the battle of the Statler by getting in the way of Mr. Tobin's minions' fists. And whether he was big enough to forgive Westbrook Pegler. Although Mr. Pegler ordinarily writes only about flowers and bird lore, he has seen fit to criticize Mr. Tobin. This had made them bitter enemies; maybe the bitterest.

ANYWAY, I knocked on the door of what—in the darkened corridor—I thought was Suite 712.

When the door opened, I thought I had gone crazy. A tall, frostbitten-looking fellow looked out.

"You are not Dan Tobin?" I screamed. "Or—if you are—you certainly have changed!"

I expect you to be skeptical—but may I be struck down dead if the fellow wasn't Westbrook Pegler!

IT SEEMS sardonic Fate had placed the deadly foes in adjoining suites. Mr. Pegler's was 708-10, the thickness of a wall from the boss teamster's!

THE THING was so unnerving I forgot along with Mr. Tobin and sat with Mr. Pegler, shaking my head and moaning. But worse was to follow.

A couple of friends dropped in to visit the benign columnist. One was Frank Waldrop, suspected widely of being a newspaper editor; the other was Lt. Col. Charles MacArthur, former valley ball champion of East Chicago, Ill., and husband of Miss Helen Hayes, the actress.

Well, I suppose it would be impossible to have three more vocal and opinionated lugs in one room. They settled every problem in the world—which was quite a feat, considering that no one, at any time, listened to a word said by the other. It was overruled by such big league company; I never got a word in edgewise.

It also developed that three of us were charter members of the "Poor Helen Club." This is a large and unexclusive organization composed of nearly everyone who has ever known Miss Hayes and Col. MacArthur.

It has signs and a password. These weird rites consist in staring at Col. MacArthur with unbelieved eyes, shaking the head, and then murmuring:

"Poor Helen! I don't see how she's been able to stand it all these years!"

THIS IS the tale of Morse's horses: "I think better on horses," Morse sez.

By George Dixon

For the last two days now, the whereabouts of Sen-elect Wayne Morse, of Oregon, and horses has been a capital mystery.

Sen Morse arrived here with his two saddle horses in a trailer attached to his car. But he couldn't find living quarters for either man or beast, and his office in the Capitol was not ready.

Morse said he hated to be separated from his steeds because riding is the only way he can relax. He added:

"I can work out any knotty problem in the saddle."

Finding no haven here he left town until an abode could be found. But no one seems to know where he has temporarily parked himself and nags.

Boston After Dark

UNTIL they relax the so-called Hays code governing the writing of motion pictures, no epic will be forthcoming based on that one-word American answer to a German demand for surrender . . . Brig. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe's historic utterance, "Nuts!"—delivered in answer to the Nazi surrender-demand at Bastogne—is banned, with all derivatives such as "neris," from all movies made by the major studios.

AMERICAN movie-goers may be interested in the chief reason why they are seeing so few gangster, racket, and cops and robbers themes in their films. . . . By agreement with all United Nations, no motion picture showing a citizen of any Allied nation in a gangster role may be distributed, while the war is on, beyond the boundaries of the country in which the movie is made. . . . An American movie-firm, therefore, would lose 20 to 30 per cent of the foreign market in distribution of such a picture. . . . 134 Lys is at the Fensgate. She's the interesting European who was featured in "Confessions of a Nazi Spy."

MARINE CAPT Jack Herbert's return to Boston after two years in the Pacific coincided with the second consecutive New Year's Eve party at the Charles River Country Club. . . . Jack's welcome was thrilling, with scores of devoted friends, paying him the most sincere sort of greeting. . . . In civilian life, Capt. Herbert is one of the most able lads in the magazine business. . . . That Charles River Country Club party, incidentally, was reminiscent of the (pre-depressant) days. . . . Jack Norwood, the club's steward, outdid himself. . . . And the trustees must have added to the black ink the famous club has been spreading on its ledgers for two years now. . . . This is worthy of some comment, because in spite of the war boom the golf and country clubs of the nation have been slow to recuperate.

NEW YEAR'S FACE merry-makers seemed to enjoy themselves, but this corner got the impression that the attitude was that of being alerted to the war-fronts, with at least one of each pair of ears cocked in an easterly direction, depending on which front some missing member of the family happened to be. . . . The gentlemen reported the crowd as the most easy to handle in years. . . . And with out exception, the night clubs reported sellouts. . . . Even the Town House which serves food and liquor of high quality without as much as a piano and fiddle to enhance the atmosphere, sold out. . . . The new addition to Jack Larkin's famous Red Coach Grill, 125 seats and a huge new fireplace, with a decor of maple corresponding to the original premises—was unveiled for New Year's. . . . The Red Coach now will be able to accommodate some of the hundreds that have been turning away nightly. . . . Newell and Steger, as entertaining as always, are threatening all long-run records at the Latin Quarter's lounge. . . . And burleso Herb Lewis, playing his own accompaniment, is doing a grand number called "That Old Feeling" at the Mayfair.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Bruce Cebot is cutting up touches with a beautiful 28-year-old surgeon. . . . With Miami facing its worst season in years, no skating, no gasoline, no steaks, night club owners who recently spent small fortunes buying new clubs and booking expensive acts are trying desperately to get out of the deals. . . . Paul Draper's blast at Sol Hurok in a Martha Deane interview has started a new Broadway feud. . . . The Hollywood grapevine insists that Gen. Eisenhower's life story is being sold by his brother for over $300,000, the money to go to an Army charity.

June Knight gave in her notice at "Glad to See You" because of the backstage battles and the way the material was being shifted among the performers. Also she's wanted for the new Gaxton-Moore show. . . . Maj. Alex (Ivay) Martin, the war hero, will walk down the aisle with Lois Mulholland in Bay City, Mich., on Jan. 6.

FREDDIE STEWART, the Tommy Dorsey find, and Jean Sorenson of "Junior Miss" are a heart today. . . . Lana Turner will choo-choo into Gotham any day now. . . . The Navy is swooping on its younger officers from Washington jobs for active sea duty. More than 20 got "sea orders" last week.

THE JACK DURANTS (Melba O'Day) expect their fourth baby momentarily. Jack, headlining at the Roxy, watches the wings anxiously at all performances. . . . Lt. Greer Bunker left for overseas on Christmas Eve. . . . Louise Topping, pulchritudinous cousin of the Sonia Henre Toppings, will shortly announce her betrothal to Lt. Erwin Hamilton Carter. . . . William Frim has taken a piano-pounding job in a Hollywood cafe and paid Rudolph is reported to have closed the iron door on him. . . . Cheryl Crawford has turned down a Hollywood offer which would have made her one of the three highest paid women executives in the film industry. Richard Arlen is coming East to do a play.

BECAUSE WOMEN seem to feel the urge to dress up at home as well as for going out ... there's a revival of interest in glamorous hostess costumes. This two-piece hostess ensemble by New York's Clare Potter features egg-shaped appliqued dots in blue contrast with the melon pink blouse. The draped skirt matches the blouses ... but goes beautifully with other tops as well for a variety of gorgeous at-home togs.—R. M.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Monday—Our New Year's Eve party was a rather small one, and practically no one here at the White House was without some people at the front in whom they had a very deep concern. So at dinner and again at midnight, we drank a toast to all the men in the services anywhere in the world, and specifically to those whom we, as friends gathered together on this New Year's Eve, held constantly in our thoughts.

After dinner we saw the film based on Maj. Ted Lawson's book, "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo." The picture follows the book very closely and is, I think, a very good film. I am afraid there were very few dry eyes in the audience when it came to an end.

I MISSED PART OF IT, as I had to go to two USO parties, but I was gone only a short time. First I visited the Uline Arena, where, under the auspices of the USO-NCCS Clubs, a tremendous party for servicemen was being held. The Navy furnished the music, and I went up on the bandstand to say a few words to the crowd of boys in uniform and the girls gathered there. It seemed to me that most of them were not in a very carefree mood, and so I hope that my rather serious words did not strike a jarring note. One simply cannot be merry just now! I could at least wish wholeheartedly with them for a happier new year. After leaving there I went to the colored USO.

I hope very much that the year to come for all our servicemen will see such advances that next year they can truly be home in greater numbers and see the day of peace actually dawning.

SO LITTLE has the New Year spirit entered into me that I have actually forgotten to say Happy New Year to many of the people I have seen this morning. Copyright, 1944, United Features Syndicate, Inc.

THIS BEING THE SEASON for promised purges of personal bad habits ... let's begin the new year by purging the complexion of unwanted impurities and forcing a facial circulation until our skin has no other alternative than to behave and develop into a thing of beauty.

Although proper diet, elimination and general good health are essential to a bright, clear complexion ... all too often does facial neglect overshadow the presence of these good functions leaving a discolored, weather-worn face in their wake.

Throughout the past year we've harped ... but constantly on the need for scrupulous cleaning of the skin. To us, a clean skin is of paramount importance. It is like the snow-white canvas on which the talented artist creates his masterpiece in oils. It logically follows that no masterful make-up job could be obtained if the complexion beneath it wasn't sufficiently receptive to the clear-quality coloring of the completed toilette.

Hence, let's start the New Year with a bright beginning, a bright complexion and an even brighter surface skin. To do this we urge the faithful daily use of a special cleansing preparation for a week, at least. You'll note that while friction is created on the skin surface by the rotary scrubbing ... brisker blood circulation is being encouraged inside.

FRESH NEW SKIN

Up comes fresh, nourishing blood to the facial tissues to revive sluggish skin in a process of stimulation that not only beautifies the radiance of your complexion but is of definite help to an enlarged pore condition ... an anathema to blackheads ... and a counteracting agent to dry, flaky skin and that dull, sallow look.

Medicos tell us that stimulating friction speeds up the rate at which fresh new skin is formed ... so don't be surprised after a week or so if you note yourself acquiring a new face ... or the nearest thing to a new skin. That's because the stimulation helps to replace the dry outer skin more often, at more frequent intervals.

You should notice a real change taking place in your complexion by the third day, for your skin then should be flaking and glowing in earnest ... a little like a snowstorm, perhaps.

Lovely Wraps for Evening

By BETTINA BEDWELL

REAL EVENING cloaks, as you noticed if you were around the swanky night spots on New Year's Eve, are in style again.

It's a long time since we saw them, and they look good. One kind that makes a truly magnificent entrance on any evening party is the full-length cloak made of velvet, like the model Miss Dulin has sketched.

This particular coat is from Zoe de Salle, and she makes it of Lyons velvet, a glorious material you haven't been seeing much for some time. The color is royal blue and the only trimming is stitching, done by hand around the curving front closing to the waistline and at the bottom of the flaring sleeves.

The coat has a sweeping skirt that just about touches the floor, and it features one lone button at the waistline.

Keep on courageously, only scrub a little less vigorously, if your skin becomes "touchy" ... but apply a little cream. For the name of this "new-face" preparation, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Guide to Adequate Diets

By MARTHA LEE

GOOD NUTRITION rewards individuals who eat adequate diets, because those individuals have more energy, feel better, work more easily, and enjoy living to a higher degree than those on inadequate diets. Isn't that reward worth taking time to plan better meals for the family in 1945?

It is not sufficient to just serve lots of food. It is necessary to serve the right kinds and combinations of foods. Use the Basic Seven guide which has been featured by the government as your pattern for checking how adequate your meals are.

Group 1—Green and yellow vegetables—some raw, some cooked, frozen or canned.

Group 2—Oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit—or raw cabbage or salad greens.

Group 3—Potatoes and other vegetables and fruits—raw, dried, cooked, frozen or canned.

Group 4—Milk and milk products—fluid, evaporated, dried milk or cheese.

Group 5—Meat, poultry, fish or eggs—or dried beans, peas, nuts or peanut butter.

Group 6—Bread, flour and cereals—natural whole grain, or enriched or restored.

Group 7—Butter and fortified margarine (with added Vitamin A).

PLANNING MEALS

In planning meals you will probably use some canned foods, some frozen foods, and some market products, and you may wonder about the nutritive value of them. As far as canned foods are concerned, you can rest assured that their nutritive value is comparable to that of cooked food prepared in any other way. Recent research, and that done in the past, has proved that canned foods retain a high percentage of their food value.

Vitamins are the whimsical elements that are easily lost in careless food preparation at home. When using canned foods, be sure to use the liquid in the can as it contains some of the water soluble vitamins, minerals, and carbohydrates. Never waste the liquid in the can. That is good slogan to keep repeating to yourself when cooking with canned foods.

While it is scientifically true that an all-canned food diet can be an adequate diet, it would mean serving all cooked foods, and our present tastes are for contrasts in raw and cooked foods. Just remember to figure the food value of canned goods as you would any scientifically cooked foods in planning your meals for the family. Start 1945 with a resolution to serve more adequate diets.

GI Nurse Need Growing Critical

PARIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Unless thousands of civilian nurses lack home volunteer for service, Army hospitals in the European theater will be short of nursing requirements by April because of increased casualties, according to Lt. Col. Ida Daneshon, the theater's chief nurse.

The shortage will hit the hospitals despite the fact that half of all the Army's nurses already are serving in this area and have the assistance of some French nurses, she said.

Col. Daneshon reported that in September the European theater had about 12,000 casualties weekly and that more soldiers were evacuated to the United States in that month than in the entire preceding period since Pearl Harbor.

UPSET STOMACH

"Upset Stomach" is good for that!

Never upset an upset stomach with over-the-counter or harsh medicines. Be gentle with it. Take nothing but Pepto-Bismol. Not a laxative. Not an antacid. It calms and soothes your upset stomach. Pleasant to the taste—children love it. Ask your druggist for PEPTO-BISMOL when your stomach is upset.

Charlestown Rid Of Gas Fire Hazard

Tin Horn Probe Ordered by WPB

The regional War Production Board today ordered an intensive investigation into Boston's New Year's Eve tin horn episode, but the OPA insisted the sale of some 50,000 metal noise makers at 10 to 20 times their 10-cent value was nothing to blow about.

While the WPB termed the sale of the tin horns unpatriotic and illegal, Eldon C. Shoup, regional OPA director, said he knew nothing about any price violations.

According to the WPB, the horns were sold throughout the city by unlicensed hawkers. Board officials were incensed not only because critical war materials were consumed for the horns, but also because manpower was wasted in their sale.

Volcano Erupts In Marianas

Saipan, Marianas Islands, Dec. 30 (delayed), (P), (via Navy radio)—American airmen flying to Tokyo reported tiny Japanese-held Alamagan island in the Marianas was aflame today, apparently from the eruption of its very active volcano.

Fliers returning from previous missions have reported smoke issuing from Alamagan's 244-foot cone. Today was the first time they saw fires over wide areas of the little island.

Amagan, 170 miles north of Saipan, is only 40 miles south of Pagan, strongest Jap point remaining in the Marianas. It is four miles long and two miles wide. Only about a dozen Japanese, and 50 slaves are believed to live on Alamagan.

Ace Meyer's Bag

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Lt. Col. John C. Meyer of Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., the leading American ace in the European theater of operations, ran his total score to 37½ enemy planes yesterday when he shot down two German aircraft within a few seconds. Of his total victories, 24 planes have been shot down in combat. Associated Press Correspondent Was Gallagher, who reported Meyer's two latest kills, said he had bagged 13½ on the ground.

1000 Tammies Home From Front

LONDON (AP)—A thousand Tammies returned to Britain on home leave from the western front. Relatives thronged railway stations to greet them.

They will have nine days in Britain—seven with their families and two for travel to and from ports. Yesterday's group was composed of veterans of the D-Day landings. Other contingents are expected almost daily under the home leave rotation plan, announced several weeks ago.

Joy Page, Army Officer, to Wed

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2—Joy Page, the lovely, talented daughter of Mrs. Jack Warner, will marry Lt. William Orr of the Army Air Forces this spring. Their engagement became known over the holidays, but because Lt. Orr does not know when he might go overseas, no definite plans have been made.

Joy's dark, exotic beauty attracted the attention of an MGM talent scout and she was signed for "Kismet," in a role almost as important as Marlene Dietrich's opposite Ronald Colman. In the beginning both Mrs. Warner and Joy's stepfather, Jack Warner, were opposed to her having a screen career, but when she

NEW YEAR'S DAY was the most inspiring in the history of the Red Cross Blood Donor Center on Boylston st., where all records were broken for blood donations in a single day. Dozens of socialite volunteers were among the Gray Ladies, staff assistants and canteen corps members rewarded for their painstaking year round service at the blood bank by the overwhelming response of over 700 Greater Bostonians making life-giving contributions in honor of friends and relatives in service.

Starting the New Year bright and early was attractive Mrs. Henry McBurney Parker, former president of the Vincent Club, who manned one of the reception and information desks throughout the day. Mrs. B. Harrison Ragle, vice chairman of volunteers, and a familiar figure around the center, was at her desk from morning till night, and staff assistants Laura Robbins, Jane Badger and Mrs. Robert

"I was thinkin'..."

by IZZY ORT

Vell, fokes, this is it -- 1945. Natch'ry I got to start this column off wid wishin' you all a real HAPPY NEW YEAR, and yessy kin bet dat I mean it frum da bottom of me heart. But yers trooly ain't stoppin' wid jess WISHIN' you all the season's greetings, coz I iz goin' to go one better and tell you HOW to make 1945 one of the happiest yers in da history of da good old U. S. A. I Sure, I kne it sounds like a purty big order for a no-body like me, but then the ideas ain't mine, and wots more, you'll all agree wid them as soon as you read 'em. You've probably guessed me magic formula by now, but anyway, here goes: First of all, EVERYBODY buy bonds, bonds and more bonds. Buyem till yer blue in da face, coz empty in the wallet. Next, if yer in defense work or doin' an important public service in yer job, don't be absent unless yer less plain unable to git to work. Coz this war ain't school, and playin' hooky can gradually add up to one missin' tank where it's needed most! Also, remember that losin' yer blood in a Red Cross Center is a good deal easier than spillin' it into a foxhole in Belgium! -- Fokes, do ya git wot I mean? Let's all pitch in and help git it over with THIS yer! Ort's Grille and El Tropico Room, 25 Essex street, Boston, advt.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—Would appreciate knowing how I stand in regard to GI benefits. So far I have approximately one month overseas after enlisting in the Coast Guard. I was 17 years of age at the time and left high school to enlist two and a half years ago. When discharged, am I in line to benefit under the educational program including special training and subsistence, or is a general education required? I intend to be a draftsman? G. S., Quonset Point, R. I.

A—You may select a school of your own to study draftsmanship and govt. will pay up to $300 yearly for your education. Bill provides one year plus length of time in service, but shall not be afforded beyond seven years after termination of war. Subsistence of $75 monthly without dependent; allowed additional sum if you have dependent. Your education is considered as being interrupted, or interfered with by reason of enlistment.

Q—Tell me if an undesirable discharge is considered dishonorable, and does a discharge of this type entitle a veteran to any benefits? Chief, Boston.

A—Considered a discharge without honor, not dishonorable. Eligible to benefits under GI Bill.

Q—My husband is in France and due to physical ailment has a permanent assignment in that country. I would love to join him, but not eligible to enlist in WAC. I would go as a Red Cross worker or even pay passage if permitted to go overseas. What could be done? My husband has written to me asking me to get over if possible. J. W., Lynn.

Q—You will be out of luck attempting to get passage overseas as a private citizen. Why don't you contact Headquarters of American Red Cross here in Boston and see if they have any such opportunities as a worker?

Q—My husband was called up for the draft and classified 1-A. Because of my condition he was granted three months' deferment. After its expiration he was recalled and turned down because of an injury and placed in 4-F. Is this classification permanent? He is 25 years old and would like to go into business but hesitates, due to fact he may be re-classified again.

A—Selective Service officials state they are calling all 4-F classifications back for re-examination within your husband's age bracket. He should wait until he sees what action the draft board takes.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this daily column.

WOMEN IN '40's

Are You Embarrassed By HOT FLASHES?

If you, like so many women, between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, nervous tension, irritability, are a bit blue at times, it is due to the functional middle age period peculiar to women—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms.

For almost a century thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported remarkable benefits. Many wise women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against such annoying distress.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps nature. It also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

FENUGREEK TEA

FENUGREEK TEA IS A NATURAL HERB—NOT A DRUG!
FENUGREEK is a natural herb that has given results to many when other methods seemingly failed. It has been said that FENUGREEK TEA is "A Cap of Good Health from the Good Earth."
A cup of this very pleasant tea is taken before meals (and upon retiring). This mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus helping to absorb by solvency, the poisons that may sometimes fester stomach troubles. It thus often acts quickly to relieve gas pains, sourness and belching.

Headaches, backaches and that tired-out feeling are often caused by toxic poisons that may enter the blood stream because of pockets of impurities in the intestinal tract.

Being a liquid mucous-solvent, FENUGREEK
TEA naturally tends to flush out thick stagnant bile and also to assist flushing of kidneys. It is not a laxative!

FENUGREEK TEA helps flush out impurities which may have been inside you a long time.
By helping to dissolve excess mucus, it can make your digestive organs feel sweet and clean. Try it today.

If your physician has placed you on an ulcer or colitis diet you'll enjoy the soothing effects of FENUGREEK TEA.

Mental Wounded: War's Most Pathetic Casualties

By AUSTEN LAKE

OF ALL THE WORDS IN WAR'S ugly lexicon, the most dreadful is "neuropsychiatric," meaning a soldier suffering from nervous or mental disorder. It is as horrid as it is long! And most sinister statistic is that from the Veterans' Administration telling of 130,388 neuropsychiatric patients pensioned off in World War II, nine out of ten of whom have never heard an enemy shot.

Austen Lake

These are extreme cases, for the Army tries earnestly to sift out its susceptibles through a fine mesh. At the first sign of nerve-crackup these are re-located in more adaptable surroundings. For there are as many degrees of war-neurosis as there are shades in the color spectrum.

A little while ago the writer visited a pre-combat infantry center in England and was chatting with a group of 20-odd soldiers when one had begun a loud, bitter harangue against the Army, its food, its confinement, its discipline. His tone was strident, his gestures violent and his language acid.

It came as a startling shock—this torrent of tumbling words! For though every normal soldier has his private gripes and expels his inner poisons in a healthy "beef," this was different—the outpouring of a mind haunted by distortion and a spirit willing with maladjustment.

The boy continued for minutes at a headlong pace, while the surrounding circle of soldiery looked at him silently. That was the thing I noticed most! The rest just turned their eyes on him intently—without any accusation or feeling other than a concentrated curiosity—as men might watch the spasms of an epileptic.

A Sergeant Diagnosed It!

THEY SAID NOTHING BUT JUST looked while the unhappy lad's voice trailed from vehemence to uncertainty and finally a throaty sob. "I... I'm sorry fellows," he stammered at last! There was no rebuke as the youth bolted for the door, with that in his every movement suggesting escape... ESCAPE! Just a path of following eyes until finally a sergeant said quietly, "The guy's cracking—he can't take it." There was no condemnation in his tone and the talk was picked up where it had stopped.

Later I ran across the same outfit in France. Only a few of its originals were left, among them the company commander. I asked him about the boy and he said, "He was reclassified..." meaning sent to more congenial surroundings. "He's in a quartermaster base now and perfectly happy."

I have lived with these ground soldiers for many months and watched them wade for weeks over knee deep muck or slog along on endless hikes, or push sleeplessly through the nights, or spit 'n' polish interminably like mechanical dolls. Almost all of them have accepted discomforts that would drive a civilian wild or sick. And only rarely did I see one of them "fly off his chump" as they say it over there!

There's a good and valid reason for this! The men in the great assault theater of France are the survivors, the fit, the capable and the ones selected to meet the machine crisis. They may not know it, but they are "winners" of a great weeding-out process in which they have been purposely exposed to every ordeal of nerve, mind and muscle to test for stamina, will and morale fibre. Most passed. A few did not! For the Army screens out any lad betraying even the faintest tendency to neurosis at the induction centers. A percentage slip by, but not many! And though it may seem a cruel way to put it 103,388 out of approximately 11,000,000 is not an enormous proportion. It's still too many!

This Is "Battle Fatigue"

IN THAT OTHER WAR WE USED to call it "shell shock" when a man came down with the galloping tremors under battle strain. My co-driver in the French ambulance succumbed that way. We'd been holed up in a French "post du sucre" (medical aid station) under an intense shell fire that was laced with lacrimatory gas. And when the barrage lifted the lad came out slack of jaw and limp at the joints. He'd lost his memory—couldn't recognize the features of his oldest associates. So they sent him away—where, I never learned!

They've a gentler name for "shell shock" in this war! They call it "battle fatigue." And often it's just that! I remember an eagle-colonel who came back to the first aid station in the corner of Germany where the River Our separates Belgium from the Reich. He'd been under shrapnel, mortar and machine gun fire for four days and nights. For 96 hours his troops had withstood ferocious fire of a fanatical horde of Hitler's SS troops, Nazis who still believe in the divinity of their body Master.

The colonel's hands were palsied. He had to grip one fist with the other to hold a cigar. And even then he had trouble in finding his mouth. And worst of all was his tragic shame. His eyes were those of a small, confused boy. He knew what was the matter but he couldn't control it. He slavered when he talked. His head would loll suddenly sideways. So the medics gave him a narcotic with a hypo-needle, put him under blankets in a corner and let him sleep.

Two days later when I returned to the same station, the colonel was eating a concoction of slum gullion from a mess kit. His tremors were gone! His eyes were still red rimmed but steady! His chin was firm. And that afternoon he slung his combat gear over a shoulder, climbed in a jeep and went back to his troops. Such things happen at the front every day—with the philosophic acceptance of the inevitable. And I say with simple reverence, "I'm proud of the solid sterling core of American youth." They're taking it!

with 16 wins, 4 losses and 2 draws, which adds up to 34 points and they've scored 87 goals to 49 against.

So, they are only three points short of last year's 22 game mark. Durnan has allowed but four more red lights to flash behind him, despite the four goal third period splurge Rangers nicked him for, the night he should have sat out and watched the game because of an injured arm.

The return of Watson to New York, plus the fact that the Canucks' high for the year is nine (they ran in 13 goals on Bert Gardiner early last season) accounts for their 18 goal deficit.

CANUCKS' 1ST LINE POTENT

The Canadians' first line is the highest scoring trio of forwards in the N.H.L. "Toe" Blake is leading the league with 37 points, Maurice "The Rocket" Richard is third, one point behind Capt. Bill Cowley, and Elmer Lach is fourth, with 31 points deadlocked with Syd Howe, Detroit. Since he showed here three weeks ago, "Rocket" Richard has established an all time N.H.L. scoring record. He beat Harry Lumley, the Detroit net guardian, for five goals and assisted on three more.

The Bruins are not feeling so well over that setback they bumped into in New York Sunday. It was a very close checking game and, according to no less an authority than Cowley, there weren't more than 20 shots on the nets.

Bill Cupolo was the victim of one of "Bucko" McDonald's old-time lacrosse checks in Madison Sq. Gardens and may not be able to take his right wing berth on the Typhoon line tonight.

4-F Drive Seen Threat to Sports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Immediate extension to professional football and baseball and other sports activities of the ban on horse and dog racing is not contemplated.

But plans projected by War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes for culling more manpower from 4-F ranks may eventually hit hard at the sporting world.

Congress, Byrnes said yesterday, should consider whether to draft all 4-Fs for war work or limited military service. Such a program if adopted might close down many sports, especially if most 4-Fs were put into uniform.

Hagg Aids in Snow Rescue; Bags Still Packed for U. S.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 2 (AP)—Gunder Hagg, Swedish miler in training for a proposed tour to the United States, helped bring a sick woman from a mountain hut to medical aid on New Year's Day, the Swedish press reported from Oestessund today.

The woman had been celebrating the holidays on a ski tour with her husband.

When the call for help came.

360,000 Grid Fans See Bowl Classics

It was Happy New Year for all the favorites except Georgia Tech and the East All-Stars in the annual Jan. 1 football bowl deluge played before more than 360,000 fans at 10 different sites.

Ranging from GI versions in Marseilles, France, and in Italy to a customary 91,000 turnout in Pasadena's Rose Bowl, the general pattern ran pretty much true to form.

Southern California stretched its Rose Bowl win string to eight by handing Tennessee a 25-0 setback.

Oklahoma Aggies smothered Texas Christian, 34-0, before 37,500 at Dallas' Cotton Bowl, but Duke had to come hard in the closing minutes before catching Alabama, 26-26, for a Sugar Bowl triumph.

Georgia Tech ran into trouble in its Orange Bowl date as Tulsa started 30,000 fans by striking for a two-touchdown lead in the first period and never letting up before earning a 26-12 decision.

The Western All-Stars shoved over two last quarter scores to shade the East, 13-7.

Southwestern of Texas set a scoring record in the Sun Bowl, crushing a Mexico squad, 35-0.

The Fifth Army won 20-0 over the 12th Air Force in the Italian Spaghetti Bowl before 25,000 GI Joes.

The soldiers in France subdued a Riviera Bowl for last year's Arab Bowl classic in Africa and 18,000 turned out at Marseilles to watch the Railway Shop Battalion unit smother the Army All-Stars, 37-0.

Entries Roll In For Silver Skates

There'll be no lightening of the mailman's load for the next month now that the entry list for the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Silver Skates Derby at the Garden, Feb. 4, has been thrown open. First returns indicate that this gala ice carnival for amateur speedsters will have as large a field as ever in its 10th-year history.

Elsewhere on this page you will find the official entry list.

Veterans of the Silver Skates Derby are warned that winners of events last year must move up a class regardless of age. Thus, with the previous winner out of the competition, each field will be wide open for newcomers.

The first thing for Derby aspirants to do right now is to become officially registered by filing entries below.

Florida, New Orleans Wind Up Racing Today

By JACK CONWAY

AS SOON AS the final races are run off at Tropical Park and at the Fair Grounds this afternoon, horse racing will end in the United States until War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes believes that the manpower and transportation problems have improved sufficiently to permit turf sport to operate again.

When in Washington last week, I wrote an article to this paper stating that all attempts to have early racing would meet refusals, and been informed by high officials that we would be a decided improvement in a war picture are the ban would be based on racing.

Bobby Permaine

The Fair Grounds management in New Orleans found out the truth of my story when it asked an extension of the closing to Jan. 31. They were angered with a firm "no" by me.

By late spring or early summer war picture may have changed sufficiently to cause a lifting of some of the restrictions racing. Until there is such an improvement it will be good policy to race track owners to accept present ruling gracefully. The order against race tracks playing help after Jan. 3 put into the ban against racing. The time of the original ruling against racing Byrnes stated that horses would be taken to ensure the order if necessary. The government has so many emergency powers as a result of the war that it is a simple matter to race or any other sport.

Horsemen Hard Hit

THE CLOSING of the tracks a greater blow to the horsemen than it is to the owners of the racing ovals. Other than for a few racing outfits have not a deal of money. Many horsemen, with two to five horses, are to keep in action all the year in order to keep up with expenses. The suddenness of the ban against racing took horsemen by surprise. Many of them have had their thoroughbreds in Florida for three months getting ready for the winter campaign. They are looking forward to the winter of purses to pay for the large head that goes with the ownership of a stable of horses.

It is estimated that it costs $10 a year to pay the expenses of a single race horse. It does require a great amount of ingenuity to appreciate the prement of hundreds of horsemen to place to race their expensiveness.

Most of the tracks have large reserves and they can ride the year without too much if they are unable to have single day of racing. The owners of the large stables also send their thoroughbreds to well-managed farms and

New Record at Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—Florida racing fans, finally convinced there was to be no relenting of the government shutdown on turf activities, were planning to close Tropical Park's abbreviated eight-day meeting today with a prodigious farewell at turnstiles and pari-mutuel windows.

A sleepy-eyed but heavily wagering New Year's Day crowd today shattered all previous Tropical betting marks by plunging a total of $777,674 in bets on the nine-race morning program.

The record handle on yesterday card, which got under way at 10 a. m. so as not to conflict with the afternoon Orange Bowl football classic, decisively topped the former betting high of $752,200, registered Saturday.

Although 14,745 persons turned out this morning to chalk up a new 1944-45 attendance record, the all-time Tropical Park attendance high of 15,168, established New Year's Day, 1939, still was good.

Racing's Poor Press

WHEN THE order came closing the tracks, racing showed a woeful lack of proper handling of a delicate task of public relations. Jockey Bobby Permaine was quoted as stating there was not anything he could do in a defense plant, only to have the Douglas Aircraft Corp. offer him a job which can be done better by a small man than anyone else.

Jockeys, trainers and owners issued statements to the press without much thought, and which were harmful to racing. There was too much resentment shown against the order which it was impossible for anyone in racing to alter. Persons without any experience in public relations were permitted to do a great deal of loose, unwise talking.

The managements of the New England tracks showed much more common sense and good taste in commenting on the closing order than did race track people in other parts of the country.

Horsemen Like Mexico

IF IT WERE not for government bans on the shipment of horses, many leading thoroughbreds would be sent to Mexico City for winter racing. Ben Smith and John L. Sullivan, millionaires, own the Mexico City track, and horsemen have faith in them. Mexico is also the mecca for thousands of American tourists, while the country is having a war boom.

Horsemen are not enthusiastic about racing in Cuba. The purses are small, and during recent years the meetings at Havana have only been on the scale of country fairs in this country. Most of the horses in Florida, New Orleans and California will be shipped to farms to await the day when racing is again permitted in this country.

It's Banquet Week For School Champs

By MIKE GILLOOLY

It's a banquet week for the schoolboy champions with no less than seven sports titlists scheduled to sit down together Thursday night at the Hotel Lenox where the Schoolboy Writers' Ass'n will be holding its annual carnival of prizes.

Reservations have been made for over 150 guests, so that if there should be particular bursts of merriment in that neighborhood, you'll know just why.

Newton High School's baseball team and its coach, the amiable Jeff Jones, battled their way into an invitation last spring when they captured the State crown. Others, such as Peabody, Class A football winners; Saugus and Chelsea, tied for Class B; Marlboro, at the head of Class C, and Hanover, the leader in Class D, had to wait until the end of the grid campaign.

Newton's diamond champs will receive the James C. O'Leary trophy for one year while Peabody will have possession of the Fred C. O'Brien trophy for the same length of time. Other class kings will be awarded trophies as will the two individuals from Suburban and Boston football ranks adjudged the outstanding school gridgers for the 1944 season.

Salem High School's Orange Bowl winners will be special guests as will five unanimous—All-Scholastic choices. These boys will include Conrad Pensavale, Everett; Nick Belises, Malden; John Hurstack, Dorchester; Henry Pelletier, Peabody; and Joe Tassinari, Salem.

John E. Warner SAYS:

"THIS CAN HAPPEN TO YOU"

If your hair and scalp show the symptoms of approaching baldness, such as excessive falling hair, dandruff and itching scalp, it is possible for you to lose your hair within a short time. Once you are bald you will always be bald, and your appearance will be permanently marred.

Thousands of men and women have saved and improved their hair through treatment by John E. Warner and Associates, but hundreds of others have been rejected because they waited too long. A private scalp examination and consultation is available to you at the offices of John E. Warner and Associates without cost or obligation. Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

Hours: Mon., Wed. and Fri., 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. Tues., Thurs. and Sat., 9:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m.
